Matt Mahar

Head Basketball Coach

Coach Matt Mahar has had a very successful first two years at the helm of the Silversword basketball program.

In his first season as head coach, Mahar led the Swords to their first ever PacWest Conference Championship. The Swords also made a first ever NCAA Tournament appearance in 2005-06 and defeated their first round opponent, Alaska-Anchorage, to advance to the "Field of 32".

Chaminade accumulated more wins than any other NCAA Division II Silversword team of the past, totaling 19 wins on the season. It was the most wins for a CU basketball team in 17 seasons. Chris Reaves was named Pac West Player of the Year under Coach Mahar's tutelage.

Chaminade saw four players earn all-conference honors while Mahar was named PacWest Coach of the Year in the banner 2005-06 season.

Coach Mahar's second year was tantalizingly close to meeting the landmarks of the year before. Chaminade again had the Pac West Player of the Year, Zack Whiting, who was also named an All-American. Four Swords were named All Pac West. However, CUH finished 16-11 on the year, good for third place in the PacWest and just missed the NCAA tournament.

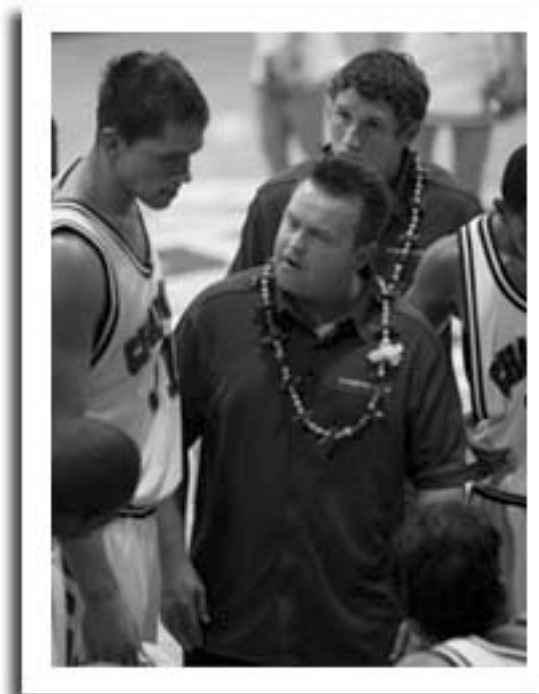

Coach Mahar is no stranger to Honolulu. Coach Mahar joined the Silversword staff in 2001 and spent three years as an assistant coach under Aaron Griess prior to being promoted to head coach in 2005.

Mahar also serves as an Assistant Director of Athletics for the University which sponsors ten varsity sports including: men's basketball, cross country, golf and soccer, while also sponsoring women's basketball, cross-country, soccer, softball, tennis and volleyball.

Before joining the CU staff, he served as assistant coach to head coach Bob Tipson at Champlain College in Burlington, VT. Prior to his position at Champlain College, Mahar was an assistant coach at the University of Vermont, Johnson & Wales University, and Johnson State College. His father, Buddy, is the former head basketball coach and 1982 NABC Coach of the Year at Columbia University in New York City. He won the award after leading the Lions to a 16-10 season and a second place finish in the Ivy League.

Mahar graduated from Johnson State College where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Health Science in 1996. In his two seasons at Johnson State College, Mahar led the Badgers to back-to-back winning seasons, while earning First Team All-Conference nominations. He also led the nation in assists per game (9).

Mahar played his first two seasons at the Community College of Rhode Island under Hall of Fame Coach Vin Cullen. Mahar helped lead CCRI to two national tournament appearances including an appearance in the Division III Junior College National Championship game in Delhi, New York.

Maurice Maggiolino

Assistant Basketball Coach

Maurice Maggiolino is set to begin his third season as assistant men's basketball coach at Chaminade University after a very successful first two years. Chaminade has won the PacWest Conference and qualified for the NCAA tournament, both for the first time in school history and has gone two for two in Pac West Players of the Year. The Swords have a record of 34-20, 34-14 against non-DI opponents in the past two years.

The 2007-08 season will be Maggiolino's sixth year as a college basketball assistant. Maggiolino coordinates recruiting and is involved with all day to day operations of the program. Coach Maggiolino also serves as Sports Information Director for Chaminade

A former college player, Maggiolino joined the staff after a three year stint at SUNY Cortland in Cortland, NY assisting under head coach Tom Spanbauer. The last two seasons ended with post-season invitations for the Cortland Red Dragons, along with 17 and 18 wins respectively. Maggiolino has also previously assisted with the Ithaca College Men's Basketball program after playing in their program for two years.

Prior to joining the CUH staff, Maggiolino had also served as a head coach in the New York State Empire State Games in both 2004 and 2005. The Central Region Open Men's Basketball Coach, he has coached and coached against numerous players from conferences such as the Big East and ACC.

Assistant Basketball Coach

Adam Riese is set to begin his first season as assistant men's basketball coach at Chaminade University. Coach Riese will be involved with all day-to-day operations of the program including scouting, film exchange, and recruiting. He is also the programs Academic Coordinator.

Riese, a 2006 University of Wisconsin-Green Bay graduate, spent four seasons as a student manager during his time as an undergraduate. In his role as student manager, Riese was responsible for the day-to-day operations of the program. He also helped out with UW-Green Bay's summer basketball camps. While at UW-Green Bay, he helped guide them to a second-place finish in the 2004-05 conference race. It was the team's best in nearly a decade, since the undefeated 1995-96 league championship season. During the 2003-04 campaign, he helped orchestrate one of the nation's top single-season turnarounds in just his second year at UW-Green Bay. The rise of the Phoenix to 17-11 ranked among the top 10 improvements in the NCAA in 2003-04.

Riese is originally from Brodhead, WI, about 30 minutes south of Madison.

2007-08 Season Outlook

Chaminade Silverswords Men's Basketball 2007-08

The 2007-08 Chaminade Men's Basketball Campaign marks the third year under head coach Matt Mahar and boasts the return of six seniors who received significant time as juniors last year. It also marks the departure of point guard Zack Whiting, who as a senior in 2006-07 was named an All-American and PacWest Player of the Year. In fact, in Coach Mahar's two years as head coach, Chaminade has had both PacWest Player of the Year recipients.

The 2007-08 Silverswords boasts three returning all-conference players. Senior Marko Kolaric, a First Team All PacWest player in 06-07 return for his senior year after averaging 11.4 points and 9.8 rebounds as a senior. Stewart Kussler also returns after averaging 12.1 points to go long with 5.3 rebounds and a field goal percentage of 55%. Hayden Heiber is back after averaging 7.5 points and 2.5 rebounds while shooting 46% from the field and 43% from three. Heiber and Kussler were honorable mention All PacWest selections last year.

Mike Green, Dan Wendt and James Francisco also return for Chaminade. Green averaged 8.2 points per contest while connecting on fifty-five three's on the year. Dan Wendt saw minutes at both the four and the five positions, scoring 3.8 points and grabbing 2.1 rebounds in thirteen minutes per contest. Returning for his senior year, James Francisco added 5.0 points per game last year, knocking down one three pointer per outing.

Coach Mahar had this to say in regards to the returnees: "The six seniors will be looked at to provide leadership throughout the year. They've been through it before. The league, the tournaments, the whole thing. You cannot replace experience. When adversity comes, leadership is paramount. When we've been successful, we've had it."

Newcomers to the program include Rodrick Johnson, Bussey Ellis, Patrick Collier and LaMarr Hunt. They will all be looked upon to help replace the loss of All-American point guard Zack Whiting, who was an instrumental part of Chaminade's 35-14 record against non-division I opponents the past two years under Coach Mahar.

"The upcoming year is an exciting one. It is also one that is filled with questions. We have had some very talented players the past few years. Some of those players have left to play professionally, some are still here, and some have just arrived. It's going to be up to us as a group to see how good we can be" commented Coach Mahar.

OF HONOLULU

November 2007

Aloha mai,

Welcome to the 2007 EA SPORTS Maui Invitational. Once again, Chaminade is honored to host this tournament, the nation's most prestigious early-season college event which grew out of our historic victory over the University of Virginia 25 years ago.

We thought you might like to know just a few things about Chaminade, a NCAA Division II school which offers a quality education on a beautiful campus located in Honolulu, just minutes from Waikiki. Despite our small size, Chaminade offers a wide variety of opportunities including 23 undergraduate majors and seven graduate degrees. We boast an attractively high ratio of faculty to students and our diverse student body is complemented by internship opportunities for leadership development. Chaminade's collaborative learning environment prepares students for meaningful careers and imbues them with a commitment to serve their respective communities.

This spring, the University plans to enter into the final phase of its $50 million "Transformations" campaign, publicly announced in 2006. The "Transformations" campaign has allowed for extensive renovation and expansion of the campus, in turn supporting the University's growing student body. In April, we will dedicate our new Sullivan Family Library, a 30,000 square foot state-of-the art information and technology facility.

As you enjoy this year's tournament, we want to let you know that we have recently launched our first ever athletics booster club, Hui 'Ahiha'ina, named after our team, the Chaminade Silverswords. We invite you to visit our tournament hospitality desk and become a charter member of the club. These funds will help defray the cost of athletic equipment, travel and scholarships; please visit our website at www.chaminade.edu for more information.

Mahalo to Mayor Charmaine Tavares and the County Council of Maui for welcoming us as 'ohana. Thanks to the Maui Visitors Bureau, Hawaii Tourism Authority and our host hotels – Hyatt Regency Maui, Sheraton Maui Resort and The Westin Maui Resort & Spa. We also honor the dedication of EA SPORTS, entering its seventh year as title sponsor of this prestigious tournament.

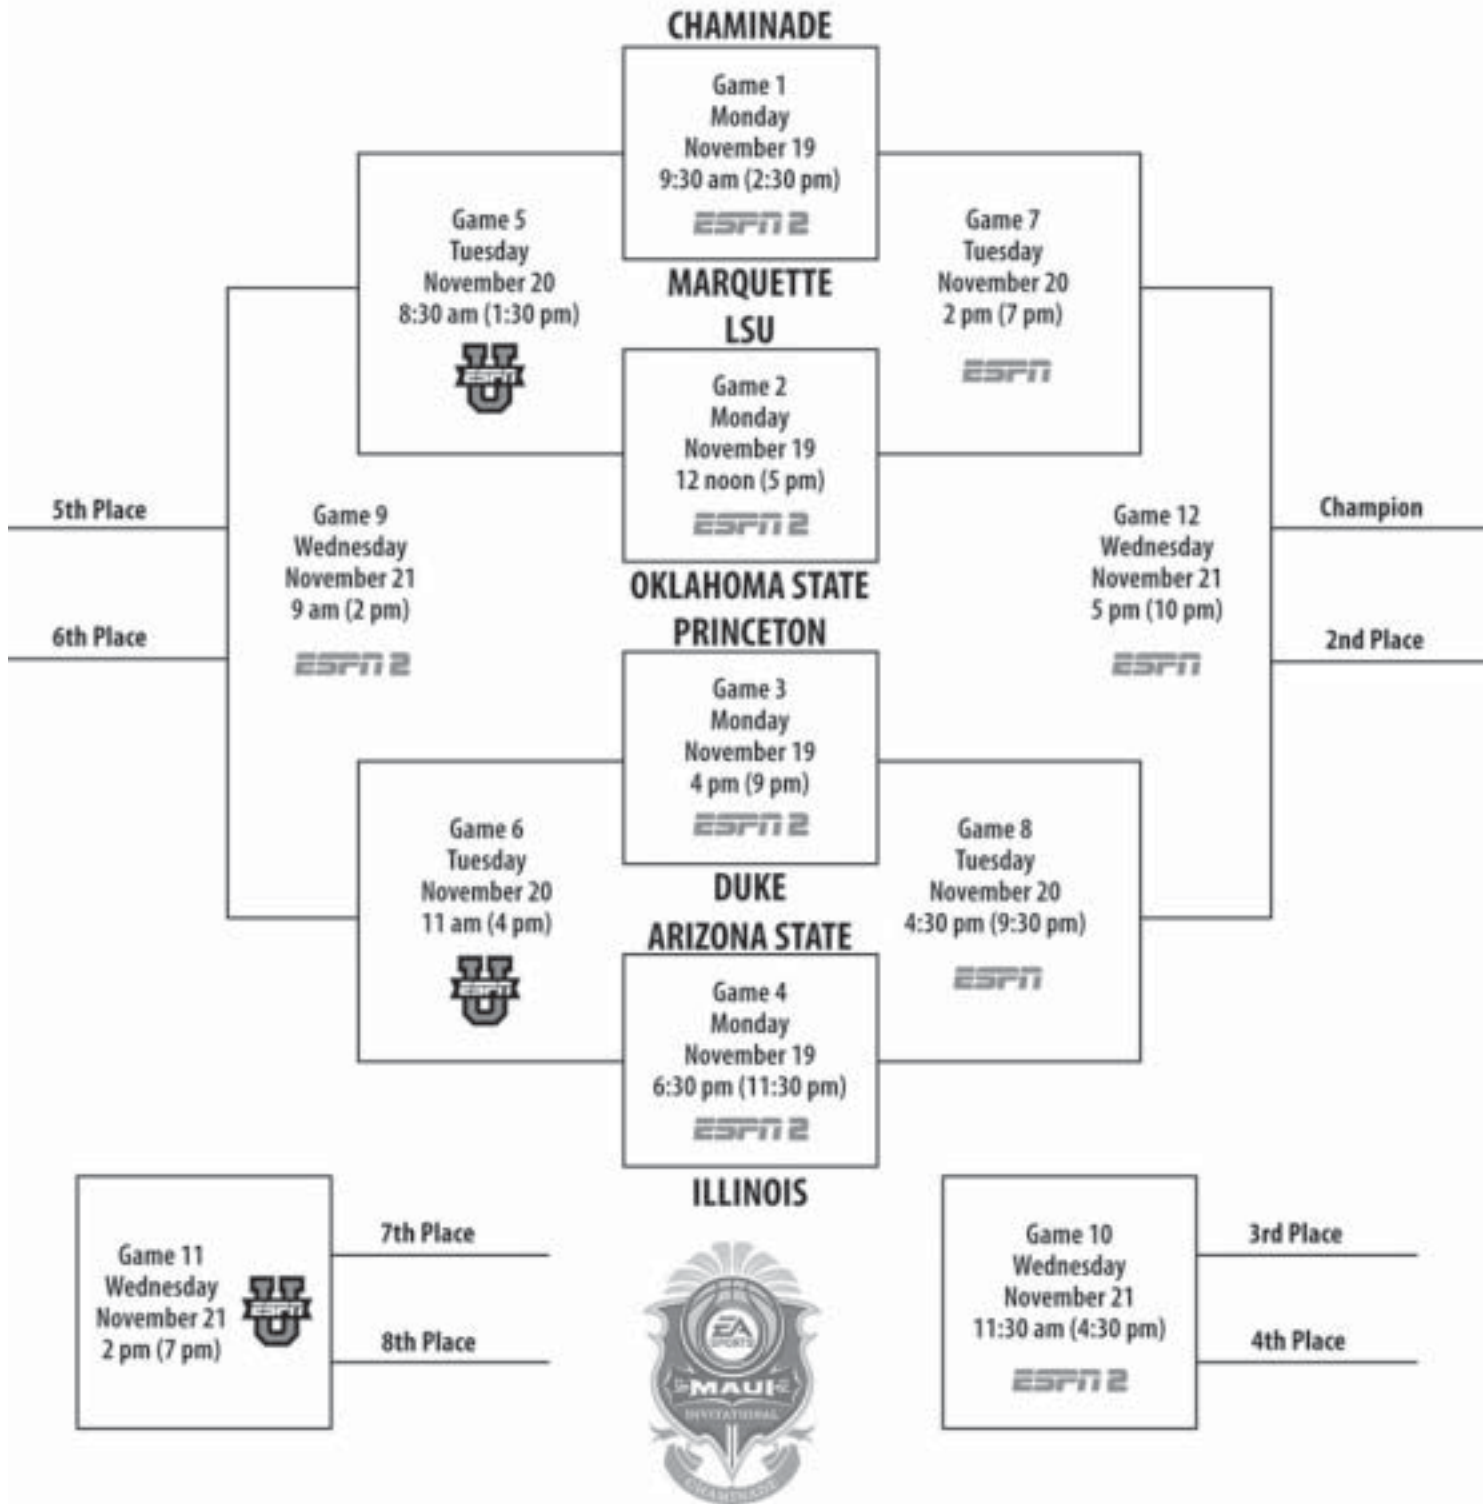

On behalf of the entire Chaminade 'ohana of students, faculty and staff, we extend our very best wishes to all of the teams, players and fans for an excellent basketball tournament and a joyous holiday season.

Pacific West Conference History

Pacific West Conference History

The Pacific West Conference was formed in 1992 by the merger of the Great Northwest Conference and the Continental Divide Conference. Over the past ten years, the PacWest has undergone several changes, but has always remained one of the most diverse athletic conferences in the NCAA. This year, the Pacific West Conference is comprised of seven schools: Brigham Young University–Hawaii, Chaminade University, Grand Canyon, Hawaii Pacific University, Notre Dame de Namur, the University of Hawaii–Hilo and Dixie State. Dixie State College of Utah, located in Saint George, Utah has become a full-time member starting in this, the 2007–08 year.

The conference also has a new commissioner. Bob Hogue steps in and replaces the only commissioner the conference has ever known, Woody Hahn. Hahn had served as the PacWest Conference Commissioner since the conference was created in 1992. He was also the Commissioner of the two conferences that eventually formed the PacWest: the GNC and CDC. He became Commissioner of the GNC in 1982 while he was still the Athletics Director at Eastern Montana College.

The formative years of the PacWest date back to 1981 when the Great Northwest Conference was formed as a men's basketball scheduling conference. The six charter members of the GNC were Alaska–Anchorage, Alaska–Fairbanks, Eastern Montana (now MSU–Billings), Eastern Washington, Puget Sound, and Seattle Pacific. In 1982, the Continental Divide Conference was formed. Alaska–Anchorage, Alaska–Fairbanks, and Eastern Montana moved to the CDC in 1984, expanding that conference to eight schools.

Discussions about a merger between the two conferences began in 1990 when the creation of the Colorado Athletic Conference took four Colorado schools out of the CDC. With the loss of Colorado College, Air Force, Denver, and Northern Colorado, the CDC and GNC were left with four and five schools respectively. With new NCAA legislation requiring conferences to have six schools, it was an opportune time to merge the two conferences.

When the Pacific West Conference was formed by the merger of the CDC and GNC in 1992, it was comprised of seven schools. The conference eventually expanded to 16 members by 2000, spanning Alaska, Montana, Washington, Oregon, California, New Mexico, and Hawaii. In the 1999–2000 season, both the men's and women's basketball champions from the PacWest reached the NCAA Final Four.

After becoming one of the most powerful and fastest growing conferences in Division II, the PacWest underwent another monumental change in 2001, dividing once again into two conferences. Schools from Washington, Alaska, California, and Oregon formed the new Great Northwest Athletic Conference, while six members remained in the Pacific West Conference. Over the past two years, the conference changed again. Montana State–Billings and Western New Mexico left the conference, and Notre Dame de Namur Grand Canyon and Dixie State joined. The three new members entered in with traditional PacWest schools Chaminade University, Hawaii Pacific University, BYU–Hawaii and the University of Hawaii at Hilo with the plan to continue forward building the strong tradition that is the PacWest Conference.

The success of its member schools and the vast diversity of its people make the Pacific West Conference one of the most dynamic in the country. Following one of its most successful years ever, the PacWest plans to move into the future, full speed ahead.
